

Do not change the protection of the no-call act. Having been a victim of harassment by a phone company after discontinuing service, I feel strongly that phone companies do NOT deserve any extra opportunity to harangue people. If businesses are so eager to telemarket, let them teleharass each other, other businesses, and leave the residential numbers alone.